A Text Convo

Hey, this is Elizabeth. Charlie gave me your number so I could let you know I'm running late. Should be there soon. :)

Hi. No rush, this party's kind of boring.

Really? Jane said it was going well.

I'm not much for parties and only came because Charlie insisted.

You don't have to stay on my account. I will have fun whether I have a date or not.

That's ok. I'm currently trying to hide after a run-in with an interesting lady earlier.

Care to elaborate?

Aren't you trying to get here? I don't want to keep you.

I'm on the train. It gets boring. I had a meeting in the city today, so I dressed at work, which made me miss the earlier train.

Anyway... not important. Distract me with what led to you now hiding.

Let's just say it was a mom telling her daughters how important it is to marry for money. Some people just aren't made for more than a fluff relationship.

I'm a little confused what you mean.

Let me ask you this – do you prefer to be here or in the city?

I guess it would depend on what I was doing – so either place.

Much like Charlie.

Charlie is happy wherever he is... as long as it is with Jane.

He makes the most of any situation. He has never had a problem finding a date when it was needed. Fluff relationships.

Are you saying he doesn't care for my sister? That he is stringing her along?

What? No! I don't know! Am I the one you should be asking?

Well you were more than willing to put the thought in my head.

I don't have a clue what Charlie thinks of your sister, but if they are both in it for a few giggles and smiles, then that's on them.

Jane isn't in a relationship with your friend only for a few laughs! How could you think that of my sister?

I don't know your sister that well.

Right! You don't! JERK!

Look, that's not what I meant! I just think that the details of their relationship should be decided by THEM, not by anyone else, whether that be a pushy mother or an observant friend.

So now my mom is pushy?

uuuuggghhhh. Was that your mom?
That was rude. I apologize.

Apology accepted.

This is why I'm still single. I'm not good at this kind of conversation. I can't get the feel of what should be said or tone of voice, and it always leads to hurt feelings.
I'm sorry.

Maybe we should just put it behind us.

Yes, please.

What will we talk about then? We can't just sit here, each staring at our phones with no conversation flowing between us.

Read any good books lately?

Really? Books? Well, I guess it's better than nothing. What was the last book you read?

A boring one on finance. I had to read it for work.

lol. Then that doesn't count.

Ok, I'm here. Where are you?

Staring at the gorgeous lady who just walked in the door.

I don't see you.

Turn to your left and walk straight to the piano, then turn right and go to the last table.

☺ Would you be Mr tall dark and handsome holding the glass of wine?
Or are you the little guy standing next to the table.

I'm NOT the waiter.

Then maybe it's a good thing I decided to forgive you earlier and come anyway.

And maybe it's a good thing I took a chance on a biker girl.

Are we going to stand here across the room from each other texting?

Meet me on the dance floor.

The End
